This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. Arthur Mason Knapp.

On Tuesday, Dec. 27, 1898, died Arthur Mason Knapp, Custodian of Bates Hall in the Boston Public Library.

He was born at St. Johnsbury, Vermont, August 3, 1839, the son of Hiram Knapp and Sophronia Brown. During his boyhood the family removed to Boston, where he fitted for college at the Boston Latin School. He was graduated as the first scholar in his class, and entered Harvard College as a member of the class of 1863. He held from Harvard the degree of A.M. as well as that of A.B.

After teaching for some years in Phillips Academy, Andover, in the Boston Latin School, and in the Brookline High School, he entered the service of the Library January 23, 1875. His first appointment was to the charge of the special collections of the Library; from 1878 until his death he held the position of Custodian of Bates Hall.

His knowledge of Shakespeariana and of Elizabethan literature was of great value in the preparation of the catalogue of the Barton collection. In his position in charge of the main reference department of the Library, his special knowledge of the subject of genealogy and local history, as well as a thorough general knowledge of the resources of the Library on all subjects, was of the greatest service to an immense constituency of readers. To the value of this service, rendered with exact conscientiousness and singleness of purpose in its relation to his colleagues, and with assiduity and personal interest towards the readers and students who came to him for assistance, the warm appreciation of all those with whom he came in contact bears witness.

IMPERIALISM

TERRITORIAL EXPANSION.

This List was compiled for use in connection with the Central Course no. 1 of the Free Municipal Lectures, delivered in the Old Public Library building on January 12, 19, 26 and February 3. It contains the titles of a few books, addresses, and articles in current magazines and newspapers on the policy of territorial expansion, which are to be found in the Boston Public Library.

For additional material consult the Reference Attendant at the Bates Hall Desk; also the Card Catalogue under the headings Philippine islands, Cuba, Porto Rico, and Hawaiian islands.

GEOGRAPHICAL MATERIAL IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON.

This guide was prepared by Mr. John Murdoch of the Staff for a meeting of the Teachers' Geography Club held in Boston on January 16. It is intended merely to direct students of geography in making use of the material in this Library.

1. THE GENERAL CATALOGUE. All books and pamphlets which have been catalogued separately (including also articles in some periodicals) are to be looked for in the general card catalogue. The heading "Geography" comprises all works on the science of geography in general and works descriptive of the whole earth (excepting gazetteers, which will be found under the heading "Geography. Dictionaries"), and is followed by the supplementary headings "Geography. Bibliography," "Geography. Dictionaries," "Geography. History," "Geography. Periodicals," "Geography. Study and teaching of." For special branches of geography, the headings to be consulted are as follows: "Commercial geography," "Geographical distribution of animals," "Geographical distribution of men," "Geographical distribution of plants," "Mathematical geography," "Medical geography," "Names, Geographical," "Physical geography," "Physiography," "Topography." The headings "Discoveries," "Earth," "Voyages," "World" should also be consulted.

Geographical journals and the transactions of geographical societies are to be found under the heading "Geography. Periodicals." Accounts of travels in special regions, and descriptions of particular countries should be looked for under the name of the country, subdivision "Geography, description and travel" — e.g., "Africa, South. Geography, description and travel"; but the physical geography of any special region will be found in the subdivision "Geology" under the name of the region — e.g., "Africa, South. Geology." For descriptions of the inhabitants of the earth, the reader should consult the heading "Ethnology," and the subdivision "Ethnology" under the names of countries — e.g., "Africa, South. Ethnology." Particular features of nature will be found under their own names, as "Glaciers," "Mountains," "Rivers," etc. The titles of many atlases and maps are also in the general catalogue, but such material may be found more easily by consulting the map catalogue on the Special Libraries Floor.

2. SPECIAL CATALOGUES. There are two special card catalogues in the library of importance to students of geography. The first is the map catalogue just mentioned. This contains the titles of all separate maps, atlases, and charts, and of all important maps which are to be found in books of travel, etc., and is arranged on the same principle as the general catalogue. It is kept on the Special Libraries Floor, near the collection of maps. The other catalogue is kept near the main card catalogue, and is an index of articles published in certain scientific journals, transactions of learned societies, etc., beginning with the year 1898, and is also arranged on the same principle as the general catalogue. The following strictly geographical journals are indexed in this catalogue: American geographical society, Journal; Geografisk Tidskrift; Geographical journal; Gesellschaft für Erdkunde, Berlin, Verhandlungen und Zeitschrift; Petermanns Mitteilungen and Ergänzungshefte; Scottish geographical magazine; Société de geographie, Paris, Bulletin; and Societe royale beige de géographie, Bulletins. Geographical articles occurring in the other journals indexed will be found in this catalogue under their proper headings.

3. BIBLIOGRAPHIES. For articles on geographical subjects in general periodical literature, the student should consult the standard indexes. These are first of all, Poole's Index to periodical literature, with its three supplements [*3180a.7], which is to be found in the Bates Hall reference library, and in the periodical reading room, the Cumulative index to a selected list of periodicals, published by the Cleveland Public Library, beginning with 1896 [*2172.24], also in the periodical reading room, the Cooperative index to periodicals [*3172.5], which with its continuation, the Annual literary index [*3172.6], has been running since 1885, the Index to the periodicals of 1890–97 [3172.9] published annually by the Review of reviews (in the Bates Hall reference library), and for French periodical literature only, Jordell's "Répertoire bibliographique des principales revues françaises" [B.H.ref.881.4], which began in 1897, and resembles Poole's Index in its scope and simplicity of arrangement. The corresponding publication for German literature is "Bibliographie der deutschen Zeitschriften-Litteratur," edited by Dietrich [B.H.ref.881.5], beginning with 1896.

In addition to the special geographical bibliographies which are to be found under the heading "Geography. Bibliography," there are two which are of importance for recent geographical literature, the "Geographical literature of the month" in each number of the Geographical journal [*6266.2], and the "Litteraturbericht," issued as a supplement in each number of Petermanns Mitteilungen [*6271.1]. Both of these contain references to articles in periodicals as well as to books. For students who wish to keep up with the latest work in geography, travel, and exploration, such lists as those published by Mr. John Ritchie, jr. (List of the books in the English language on travel, exploration, and mountaineering ... 1897) [*2177.14], are of the greatest value. Readers who wish to keep informed of the latest publications on these subjects received at the library, will find the desired information in the Monthly Bulletin, under the heading "Geography. Travels," and in the Annual list of new and important books added to the library, under the same heading.

4. SPECIAL LISTS. From time to time, the Library has published lists of books on special subjects. Among these, the following are of interest to the student of geography: Afghanistan, in the Quarterly bulletin no. 48; Hawaii in no. 92; Egypt in no. 94; Africa, and Alps in no. 95; Arctic regions, in no. 96; Corea, Japan, China in no. 99; The Yukon gold fields, together with works on Alaska, in the Monthly bulletin for September, 1897; and The Philippines, Cuba, and the West Indies, in the Monthly bulletin for July, 1898. Most of these lists can still be obtained in separate form at the library.

For ready reference, there are some 200 selected volumes on geography, general and special, with a collection of atlases, on the open shelves in Bates Hall (northern end).

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

MUNICIPAL LECTURES. On page 55 will be found a list of references to books and current articles on Imperialism. These were supplied by the Library for use in connection with the first central course of free municipal lectures. The books, etc., referred to, were kept, so far as possible, for use in Bates Hall, or were issued for a limited time. Where practicable similar lists will be provided for succeeding courses of lectures.

DIVISION OF DOCUMENTS. Recognizing the growing importance of international questions, the Library has made preparations for receiving the more important state papers of Great Britain, France and Germany, as they are issued. While the system is as yet undeveloped, the value of it to the public and to special students of international law and commercial relations is already recognized, and may be illustrated by recent accessions in this particular line: The correspondence between France and Great Britain on Madagascar, of high commercial interest; the proposal of the Czar of Russia for a conference on armaments; the English treaties containing guarantees or engagements by Great Britain, in regard to the territory or government of other countries; and the lease (with a map) of land adjacent to Hong Kong entered into between China and Great Britain. From Germany have been received the proceedings of the labor congresses held in May and August, 1898; a critical essay by Dr. Neumann-Hofer on the growth of the social-democratic party as shown by the recent elections of Germany; and a series of papers on German commerce, one of which treats of the commerce of Germany with the United States.

EXHIBITIONS. In December and January photographs and plates were hung in the Fine Arts room, of paintings of madonnas, of English country churches, French châteaux, French cathedrals, buildings in Paris, and famous façades, extending the list of "greatest façades," voted for in the expression of opinion asked for by the "Brochure Series of Architectural Illustration" for September, 1898.

BRANCHES AND STATIONS. A new delivery station, Station U, 62 Union Park St., was opened December 27.

Station A, Lower Mills Reading Room, has been refurnished and the gas light greatly improved by the addition of chandeliers.

Extensive changes have been made in the interior of the Brighton Branch with the purpose of providing for free access to the shelves. The larger part of the books may now be directly handled by the public.

At the Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, South Boston and South End Branches, the shelves containing books on history have been thrown open to the public.

The Charlestown, East Boston and South Boston Branches, and Station S, the Roxbury Crossing Delivery Station, are open this winter on Sunday for the issue of books as well as for reference and reading.

GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY.

THE WATER SUPPLY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON.

This List was compiled for use in connection with a lecture delivered by Professor William T. Sedgwick, on February 6, in the Central Course No. 2 of the Free Municipal Lectures held in the Old Public Library building.

The work now under way for supplying water to Boston and adjacent cities and towns constituting the Metropolitan Water District is outlined in the Annual Reports of the Metropolitan Water Board, which form a part of the Massachusetts Public Documents, and are also separately published. This Board was constituted by the Legislature following the comprehensive Report of the Massachusetts State Board of Health upon a Metropolitan water supply, February, 1895, in which the projects for obtaining water from Lake Winipiseogee, the Nashua river and other sources are considered. In the reports of the Cochituate, Mystic, and Boston Water Boards is given an account of the Boston water supply system, with a history of the undertaking. These documents are in some cases enriched with maps and illustrations. The collection may be seen at the Bates Hall Desk. The action of the City government may be traced in the Index to the City Documents, 1834 to 1897. The first document mentioned in that Index is the report of Loammi Baldwin in 1834. This document, the report of Daniel Treadwell in 1825, and the Message of Mayor Lyman in 1834 are of especial importance. The titles of many other early publications may be found in the Card Catalogue of the Boston Public Library, and in convenient form in the Bulletin of the Library for July, 1894. The Annual Reports of the City Engineer who constructed the Boston system may be examined [*6357.56], and the City Council Proceedings as far as printed since 1868 [*6350.2]; also the City Laws and Ordinances since 1850 [*6351.80–104], especially the important edition of 1876 [*6351.93]. For other material relating to the Boston Water-Supply consult the Special Laws of Massachusetts, from vol. 2 of the Private and Special Statutes (pp. 19 and 76) to the present time [*6440a.27]; partly collected in Special statutes ... relating to the City of Boston, 1897 [*6355.66]. The Library has recently obtained an autograph document on vellum, being an Indenture given to the Company of the Waterworks to lay and maintain a conduit "in the street now called or knowne by the name of Conduit street" (Union Street) [G.380.29], (printed in Suffolk Deeds, vi, 21–24 pp. [*4455.50, Book 6]). It has been called the beginning of the Boston Water Works, pursuant to the incorporation of 1652. A rival conduit was started by Capt. Keayne (Boston Record Commissioners, vol. 10, p. 9) but came to nothing. The conduit of 1652 lasted until the Revolution. The Act of Incorporation of the Water-Works Co. is in the Massachusetts Colonial Records, vol. 4, part 1, p. 99 [*2350.2, vol. 4, part 1]. The following illustrated articles are popular reading: "How Boston gets its water," by Fletcher Osgood, in the New England magazine, new series, vol. 14, June, 1896, and "Greater Boston's New reservoir," by Charles H. Bemis, in Harper's Weekly, vol. 41, Jan. 16, 1897. CIVIC ARCHITECTURE.

This List was compiled for use in connection with a lecture delivered by Mr. C. Howard Walker, on February 24, in the Central Course No. 2 of the Free Municipal Lectures held in the Old Public Library building.

In 1894 the Public Library published a Catalogue of its books relating to architecture, construction and decoration, and such readers as desire a comprehensive list of titles on these subjects will find this catalogue useful. The following books are recommended as giving a general view of the interest in and development of civic achitecture in this country and in some European countries, and as showing the importance which the subject is assuming. The great mass of information and suggestion upon this matter is to be found in periodical literature, and such periodicals as the Allgemeine Bauzeitung [*4090.201], the Builder [*4104.201], the Nouvelles annales de la construction [*4012.208], the Revue générale de l'architecture des travaux publics [*4091.206] should be consulted. Articles from one or two such publications have been used in this list, and the number could be extended almost indefinitely.

An index to a collection of photographs and plans of library buildings has been printed by the Public Library, and it may be seen upon application.

In the Bates Hall catalogue, the heading Public works, under the names of countries and cities, as well as the heading Fine Arts — Architecture, will show some interesting treatments of this topic. The great work of Belgrand, for instance, Les travaux souterrains de Paris [*5940.2], considers the water-supply of that city largely on its artistic side — the acqueducts, fountains, &c. The books and articles referred to below are almost all quite fully illustrated, although for the most part special mention has been made of the fact only in cases where the plates form a principal part of the work.

The figures added indicate the shelf-numbers of the volumes in the Boston Public Library.

PASSENGER TRANSPORTATION IN BOSTON.

This List was compiled for use in connection with a lecture to be delivered by Mr. George G. Crocker on March 3, in the Central Course, No. 2, of the Free Municipal Lectures held in the Old Public Library building.

It is intended in the following list to give a few titles of books and other publications of local interest, the subject of transportation in general being too voluminous to be dealt with here.

The history of Passenger transportation in Boston is given in C. W. Ernst's Boston and transportation [4454.47], printed by the Bostonian Society in their Proceedings for 1898, pp. 18–31, in which Mr. Ernst gives an account of the early days of coaching and dwells on transportation by water lines. A sketch of the progress in New England from the time of the stage coach to the present is traced by Josiah H. Benton, jr., in his Railroad transportation in New England [7650a.77]. Shurtleff's edition of the Mass. Records and the various town records should be consulted for information regarding the early roads. Mr. C. F. Adams' writings should also be examined. The turnpike system may be traced in the Mass. Acts and Resolves from 1802 to recent days. Information regarding the Winnisimmet Ferry, the oldest transportation line in the United States, may be found in Mass. and Boston records, Sewall and Chelsea papers. Much interesting matter regarding early methods of travel may be gleaned from the biographies of early Bostonians and New Englanders, and the writings of early travellers; among others those of Adams, Samuel Breck, Sarah Knight, Larochefoucauld, Drayton, and Dwight may be mentioned; the Winthrop papers published by the Massachusetts Historical society should also be consulted. Descriptions of the methods of conveyance in use before the introduction of the railway may be found in the histories of Boston and in advertisements in the early newspapers, and in the Massachusetts Register [*2349.1]. Other matters of interest concerning the stage lines with lists of stages and distances may be found in early years of the Boston almanacs, and in Spofford's Gazetteer of Massachusetts, 1828 [*2383.9]. Fleet's Almanac and Register for 1794 is unique on Boston suburban travel lines and coaches [*2359.3.11]. The annual reports of the various railroad companies terminating in Boston and those of the street railway companies in Boston will be found useful and may be consulted in the Library. The recent great development of electrical and street railroads may be studied in Johnston's Electrical and street railway directory [*3960a.73], and the progress of steam locomotion from the earliest times is set forth pictorially in Pangborn's World's railway [*8010.157].

The legislation on the subject may be found in Special Statutes of the Commonwealth relating to the City of Boston, passed prior to January 1, 1897 [*6355.66], in the City Council Proceedings, 1868 to date [*6350.2], and in City Laws and Ordinances since 1850 [*6351.80–104]. The Index of the special railroad laws of Massachusetts, 1826–1873, by Edward L. Pierce, will be found useful. A convenient Index to City documents, 1834 to 1897, by James L. Hillard, may be found in the Bates Hall reference library [*6356.2].

Poor's Manual of the Railroads of the United States, which has reached its thirty-first annual number, gives elaborate statements of the condition of the steam surface railroads, and of street railways, as well as of the great corporations on which the railroads largely depend for material for transportation. The latest number is kept in the Bates Hall reference library. A collection of publications relating to steam communication between Boston and other ports, domestic and foreign, is on shelf-number [*5650a.6]. The extent of the literature relating to railroads in general may be judged by Teggart's Catalogue of the Hopkins Railway library, published by the Leland Stanford Junior university in 1895 [*2173.10]. The library at that time contained 9,245 volumes. Illustrations of the cars, omnibuses and conveniences for passengers, and titles of articles not in the following list, may be found in the magazines to which references are given in the indexes to periodical literature: Poole's Index to periodical literature, 1800–96 [*3180a.7], kept in the Bates Hall reference library and in the Periodical Room; the Cumulative index, 1896 to date [*2172.24], also kept in the Periodical Room; the Cooperative index to periodicals [*3172.6] which with its continuation, the Annual literary index [*3172.6], has been running since 1885; and the Index to the periodicals of 1890–98 [3172.9], kept in the Bates Hall library, published annually by the Review of reviews.

For other material consult the Bates Hall card catalogue under the names of the various City and State government Boards and Commissions, and the names of the railroad and other transportation companies, as: Bay State transportation league; Boston and Albany railroad; Boston and Chelsea railroad; Boston and Lowell railroad; Boston and Maine railroad; Boston and New York Air Line railroad; Boston and Ontario railroad; Boston and Providence railroad; Boston and Worcester railroad; Boston Board of Trade; Boston Chamber of Commerce; Boston, Hoosac Tunnel and Western railroad; Boston Elevated railway company; Broadway railroad; Charlestown Branch railroad; Eastern railroad; Fitchburg railroad; Highland [street] railroad; Hoosac Tunnel; Massachusetts. Board of Railroad Commissioners; Secretary of the Commonwealth; Massachusetts Central railroad; Mystic River railroad; Marginal freight railroad; Meigs Elevated railroad; Metropolitan [street] railroad; Middlesex [street] railroad; New York and New England railroad; Union railroad station (South); West End street railway; Western railroad.

The figures added indicate the shelf-numbers of the volumes in the Boston Public Library.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

PUBLICATIONS. The Catalogue of the Codman Collection of books relating to landscape architecture, supplemented by a list of books on trees and forestry, was issued in February.

The Index to Vol. 3 of the Monthly Bulletin, for binding with the Bulletin, is ready for distribution.

The second Annual List, of books added to the Library in 1898, compiled from the Monthly Bulletin, was issued January 1.

MUNICIPAL LECTURES. In this Bulletin will be found reference lists supplied in connection with lectures during February in the Central Course No. 2, on the subjects "The Water Supply of Boston," and "Civic Architecture"; and with a lecture to be delivered on March 3, on "Passenger Transportation."

SPECIAL LIBRARIES. Exhibitions have been held in connection with the lectures, January 31, by Mr. C. Howard Walker on Early Greek Architecture and Ornament, and February 15, by Prof. H. Langford Warren on the Acropolis of Athens, both lectures under the auspices of the Unity Art Club. In connection with the lectures given by Mr. J. F. Hopkins before the teachers of the public schools, photographs and colored plates have been hung on the following subjects: Egyptian sculpture and design, Greek sculpture, architecture, and ornament, Roman sculpture and architecture, Byzantine and Saracenic architecture.

A photograph of the decorative frieze of the Canterbury Pilgrims by Robert Van Vorst Sewell, in the house of Mr. George J. Gould, Lakewood, N. J., has been framed and hung in the Fine Arts room.

ALTERATIONS. The Newspaper and Periodical reading-rooms are now connecting departments on the entrance floor. The Patent room has been removed to the west wing, and may be reached by the way of the courtyard arcade, or by means of the elevator, through the Special libraries. The room formerly occupied by the Patent collection now forms a second room for younger readers, to be used for reference and study.

GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY.

FOR THE GALATEA COLLECTION: forty-six monographs on the rights and duties of women, from Helen Blackburn, London; twenty-six monographs, volumes, and periodicals from Col. T. W. Higginson, the donor of the collection.

FROM MR. CHARLES P. BOWDITCH: his work in collaboration with Mr. Harrison Ellery, on the Pickering Genealogy, being an account of the first three generations of the Pickering family, volumes 1–3. Privately printed, 1897. Also twelve sheets of additions, etc., to his Genealogy of the descendants of John and Sarah Burwell Pickering of Salem, completing the copy belonging to the Library.

BATHS AND GYMNASIA.

This List was compiled for use in connection with a lecture delivered by the Hon. Josiah Quincy, Mayor, in the Central Course, No. 2, of the Free Municipal Lectures held in the Old Public Library building.

About fifteen years ago the Engineering Record (then called the Sanitary Engineer) began a systematic agitation of the question of public baths, and a great quantity of interesting material is to be found scattered through its volumes. Some of the more important articles are indexed below, but a systematic analysis is impossible in this brief list. In January, 1894, the first public bath house was opened in Chicago, and the recent Reports of the Department of public works [*4475.55] give brief summaries of the work accomplished in this direction. In April, 1895, the New York Legislature passed a law requiring cities of the first class to maintain public baths which should be open the year round, but this law has not yet been carried into effect. In 1897 the committee appointed by the Mayor of New York published a Report on public baths and public comfort stations, no copies of which were obtainable within a short time after its appearance. The first volume of Municipal affairs [3563.70] contains a Bibliography of municipal administration and city conditions, by Robert C. Brooks, and this Bibliography gives a brief list of works upon Public baths, lavatories and wash houses.

Buffalo, N. Y., and Brookline, Mass., each opened a model bath-house on January 1, 1897, and articles describing both these will be found in the appended list. Late reports of the Boston Park commissioners [*4353.50] and of the Health department [*7765.50] give valuable statistics of the long-established public baths of Boston; but the inaugural address of the Mayor, in 1896, first called attention to the need of all-the-year-round baths, and the Dover street bath-house resulted from his recommendation. The public gymnasium has received much less attention than the public bath-house, if the poverty of contemporary literature on the subject is taken as a sign; but it is probable that the absence of printed discussion on the matter is to be explained in other ways.

THE LABOR MOVEMENT IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

This List was compiled for use in connection with a lecture delivered by Mr. Harry Loyd on March 8, in the Central Course No. 3 of the Free Municipal Lecturs held in the Old Public Library building.

The labor question presents so many phases that it has been thought best not to prepare a list of specific references, but to indicate generally the more important sources of information. Should the reader desire to consult a full list of works dealing with the labor question, reference may be made to "A List of Books on Social Reform in the Public Library of the city of Boston" issued in 1898.

History. No good history of "labor" in the United States has been written. The census of the United States has dealt with industrial statistics since 1810, but with little consistency or result until that taken in 1870, under General Walker's direction. Since that time the great features of industry in this country have been treated statistically every ten years, with more or less satisfactory results. Even in these investigations the theoretical discussion of labor problems has been avoided, and effort concentrated on recording the actual status of the laborer, with an indifferent attempt at recording his efficiency as measured in product. The difficulty of seeking general averages based upon a collection of facts drawn from many sources, no two sources possessing the same conditions, has led to some question on the merits of the census returns. The report of J. D. Weeks on Wages in the Census of 1880, must be taken with due allowance. A critical examination of the methods employed in census wage statistics will be found in R. Mayo-Smith's Wage statistics and the next census [5656.31].

Some of the difficulties attending the collection of wage statistics are obviated by obtaining returns from a limited territory, in which the works may be regarded as standing on more nearly the same conditions, and by obtaining returns at frequent intervals (annually) from the same establishments. This method has been pursued for some years by the Massachusetts State Labor Bureau, and commends itself for many good qualities, without, however, entirely disarming criticism. Nor has the system been adopted by any other state bureau either at home or abroad. In this connection it may be stated that no comparison of wages in the United States and in a foreign country can hold true, because the factors to be considered are beyond record and comparison. The tables of wages in New York, Belgium, Tokio and Calcutta are not reliable material on which to rest conclusions of comparative wages.

Much has been done by various state bureaus to gather information on the condition of labor in the different communities, and the reports are well worth examining. The recommendations made by the bureaus are, however, usually of little value, and mark the separation of the bureau from the workingmen. The best results have been obtained when the state agent confines himself to recording facts and conditions, without entering into a discussion of the needs or rights of labor. The most decided effects of these state agencies lie in their efforts to secure the safety and health of the worker, his freedom from unjust treatment in the matter of wages or housing, and a general supervision of his welfare. Legislation can do much for the workingman; but the law must be made effective, and the reports of Factory Inspectors, also of state officers, must be consulted to supplement the reports of the labor commissioners.

The intervention of the State has been sought in labor disputes — through state boards of arbitration and conciliation. There is some dispute whether such an agency can be of real benefit in every case, and it is believed that better results are obtained by invoking it only for the most serious emergencies. The following works may be consulted: J. D. Weeks, Labor Differences and their Settlement [5577.44]; Josephine S. Lowell, Industrial Arbitration and Conciliation [3568.151]; S. N. D. North, Industrial Arbitration: its Methods and its Limitations [3569.46]; and the annual issues of the Massachusetts Labor Bureau.

Apart from State interference the workingman holds a power of acting in his own behalf. The most usual form of exerting this power has been the strike, and the industrial history of the United States gives many instances of its use. The railroad strikes of 1877 (Pennsylvania), 1886 (Southwestern system), and 1894 (Pullman) may be named among the more general; but the local movements, such as the cloak-makers in New York, the cotton operatives in Fall River, and the trolley men in Brooklyn, were quite as intense and as suggestive in their way. The legal aspects are important: Moses, The Law applicable to Strikes [3664.71]; Cogley, The Law of Strikes, Lockouts and Labor Organizations [3663.79]; and Neville, Strikes: a concise Statement of the Criminal Law relating to Intimidation [3665.84]. The statistics of strikes are collected by the United States Labor Department, while those of strikes in Massachusetts, 1830–1880, may be found in Carroll D. Wright's volume [3575.109].

An active and powerful engine for conducting a strike has been the Trade Union. That is, however, only one of the objects of these combinations, and is now of secondary importance. The most recent and at the same time the most complete examination of the sphere, actual and possible, of trade unionism is Sydney and Beatrice Webb's Industrial Democracy [3565.218]. The history of labor organizations in the United States is told in Powderly's Thirty Years of Labor, 1859–1889 [3570.163], and this may be consulted in default of any other compilation on the same subject. J. G. Brooks's Labor Organizations [7563.113] and W. M. Grosvenor's Trades Unions [5643.60] may be read with profit. One phase of combination is shown in the history of the farmers' movement: W. D. Aiken, The Grange [5992.7.55], and J. D. McCabe, Jr., History of the Grange Movement [3570a.66] — a record showing the besetting dangers attending any such movement, when in unskilful or interested hands.

Akin to trade unionism stands the co-operative movement. While co-operation is more common in Europe than in the United States, it is not without interest from its possibilities. Co-operative production has been attempted in many lines, and under good management has met with success; but it is in distribution that its greatest achievements have been accomplished, and of this the Rochdale enterprise is the great example. (See G. J. Holyoake's History of Co-operation in England [3568.74] and his History of the Rochdale Pioneers [3569.155].) For the United States may be read: History of Cooperation in the United States [2356.69.6]. A form of co-operation is the loan or building association, on which there is much to be found in State reports.

Capital and labor may combine to aid the worker, and this aid has assumed two forms: that of profit sharing, in which the laborer shares in the net profit of the undertaking, and that of insurance, compulsory or voluntary, in which a fund is created for assisting the workingman when he is no longer able to work. On the former subject see Carroll D. Wright, Profit Sharing [3575.105]; F. H. Giddings, The Relation of recent Economic Theory to Profit Sharing [3569a.108]; and N. P. Gilman, Profit Sharing [3564.87]. On insurance of workingmen, the study of J. G. Brooks on Compulsory Insurance in Germany [B.H.Ref.532.3.4] brings out one side of the matter, while E. R. Johnson, Railway Departments for the Relief and Insurance of Employes [5657.73], presents another. A combination of state and company agency is proposed in the scheme for pensions for old age, now before the British Parliament — Drage, The Problem of the Aged Poor [3577.111].

For studying the different phases of the labor question in Great Britain reference may be made to a bibliography of the subject of wage statistics in the Economic Review, October, 1898. The Board of Trade issues a monthly "Labour Gazette" which contains a record of the condition of the labor market, strikes and legislation in the United Kingdom. In the Parliamentary papers regular reports on labor are printed, supplying the basis for theoretical treatment by experts and economists.

Resignation of the Librarian.

At a meeting of the Trustees on Friday, March 24, the resignation of the Librarian, Mr. Herbert Putnam, was accepted in the following resolutions:

"In accepting the resignation of Mr. Herbert Putnam as Librarian, the Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston desire to put upon their records the following votes:

"That they recognize the harmonious and helpful relations between the Librarian and the Trustees from the day he accepted the office; the remarkable administrative qualities he has shown — in directing the alterations by which the Library Building has been so well fitted for its purposes; in increasing to so large a degree the interest the public takes in the Library, until to-day it has a larger constituency than any other; in instituting so successfully the work of the Public Library in connection with the Public Schools; and in making the public realize that this institution, created and supported by it, really belongs to it, and needs its ever-enlarging patronage and generosity.

"That they appreciate the feeling which leads Mr. Putnam, at much personal sacrifice, to give up his position here to take charge of the Congressional Library at Washington, and his desire to make it the culmination of the Library system of this country, and in time one of the great Libraries of the world.

"That their highest regard goes with him in the difficult work he is about to assume, and their faith in his gifts to bring it to the most successful issues."

Mr. Putnam has accepted the position of Librarian of Congress.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

BATES HALL. Readers will find selected books on topics of current interest placed on open shelves near the Bates Hall catalogue. General subjects, the Spanish-American war, Imperialism and others, and such special subjects as the anniversaries of the birth of Lincoln, of Washington, the Boston massacre, and the Philippine Islands, have been recently illustrated by collections of pertinent material. Recent accessions, also, in travel, history, and biography have been located here. These books may be drawn for home use.

SPECIAL LIBRARIES. On March 22, under the auspices of the Unity Art Club, Professor Edward S. Morse lectured in the Fine Arts room on the Industrial Arts of Japan.

There have been exhibitions during the month as follows: books and photographs in connection with the lecture by Professor Morse; photographs of Romanesque and Gothic architecture, and of Renaissance sculpture, to illustrate the lectures to teachers by Mr. J. F. Hopkins; books, prints, newspapers, etc., relating to the Boston Massacre, March 4, 1770; a collection of Valentines, loaned by Mr. Frank House Baer of Cleveland, Ohio.

MUNICIPAL LECTURES. In this Bulletin are printed a list of references on Baths and Gymnasia, the subject of a lecture delivered by the Hon. Josiah Quincy, Mayor; and a bibliographical note on the Labor Movement in England and America, a lecture delivered by Mr. Harry Loyd.

GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY.

GARRISON PAPERS. Among other gifts of the month was an addition to the Garrison collection, consisting of Letters to William Lloyd Garrison during the years 1835–1850, together with certain bronze medals; received through Mr. Francis J. Garrison, Boston.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

APPOINTMENTS TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS. On May 1 and 8 respectively the Board of Aldermen confirmed the appointment by the Mayor to the Board of Trustees of Mr. Josiah H. Benton, jr., and of Dr. Thomas Dwight.

At the annual election of officers of the Board of Trustees, on May 9, 1899, Mr. Solomon Lincoln was elected President, Dr. James De Normandie Vice-President, and Mr. Philip H. Savage Clerk, for the ensuing year.

OPENING OF LECTURE HALL AND UNVEILING OF THE BUST OF SIR WALTER SCOTT. On May 17 the Lecture Hall of the Library was opened. Advantage was taken of the gift to the Library, from the Westminster Committee on the Scott Memorial, of a marble copy of the bust of Sir Walter Scott by Chantrey, a first copy of which was placed by the Committee in Westminster Abbey; and a formal unveiling preceded the addresses on the opening of the hall.

Mr. Solomon Lincoln, President, presided. The bust was unveiled during the preliminary address of Dr. De Normandie by Mr. Fiske Warren, who with Mr. James Murray Kay, took charge of the American subscriptions to the Westminster Memorial. An address on Scott was delivered by President Eliot of Harvard University. Other addresses on the influence of Scott, as well as on the opening of the Lecture Hall, and its significance as a supplement to the work of the Library, were made by His Honor Mayor Quincy, Mr. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mr. Edward Robinson, and Hon. Charles Francis Adams.

PUBLICATIONS. A Selected Bibliography of of the Anthropology and Ethnology of Europe, by Professor William Z. Ripley of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is now published; price, 50 cents. The book is a large 16° of 160 pages printed in single column with wide right hand margins for annotations and additions. The bibliography contains 2000 titles, about 95% of which are in the Library.

EXHIBITIONS. Since note was last made in these columns, exhibitions have been held in the Fine Art room as follows:

Of plates illustrating the industrial arts, in connection with the Exhibition of the Society of Arts and Crafts; of a collection of Shakespeareana from this Library and the Harvard Library, in connection with the meeting on April 3, of the Old Cambridge Shakespeare Association and the Boston Shakespeare Club; of broadsides relating to the battle of Lexington; of Scott portraits, etc.; of photographs of the English school of painting; of photographs of American mural decorations.

In the juvenile department an exhibition is open of books, etc. relating to the battle of Bunker Hill; the exhibition is held in the new reference reading-room for children, and circulars of invitation have been sent to the teachers of high and grammar schools in Boston.

FROM MR. ALLEN A. BROWN FOR THE BROWN LIBRARY OF MUSIC: a full score of the opera "Carmen."

FROM MESSRS. LITTLE, BROWN & CO., AND HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.: six hundred and fifty-seven photographs of portraits in the National Portrait Gallery in London.

On the retirement of the Hon. Frederick O. Prince from the Presidency of the Board of Trustees the following tribute to Mr. Prince was addressed to him by the Board:

"The Trustees of the Public Library, at their meeting held on the 19th of May, 1899, desire to put upon their records the following tribute to Hon. Frederick O. Prince:

"Mr. Prince is among the oldest residents of Boston and a faithful servant of the city of his birth.

"We recall with interest the part he has taken in suggesting and carrying out many of the most marked improvements in this city of these latter years; his felicitous addresses upon so many public occasions, especially at the laying of the corner-stone of this building; and his fidelity in the highest and most honorable offices which Boston has repeatedly bestowed upon him.

"It was most fitting that he should become the president of this corporation, after his activity in arranging for the site of the building, involving careful and complicated dealings with the City and the State; in deciding upon its plans; in watching the whole work of its creation and the transfer of its treasures from their old home, in all of which his interest was unabated and his pride justified.

"During the eleven years he has been a member of this Corporation his attendance at its meetings has been prompt and faithful, his counsel judicious, his gracious and affable manners and spirit always the same.

"We have marked with unfeigned regret his failing strength, by which he has been detained from our meetings the past winter, and which at last has compelled his retirement from the Board.

"Our heartfelt sympathy follows him to the confinement of his home, and our earnest wish for the quiet enjoyment of venerable age, without suffering, and with a happy retrospect which he has earned by an active and helpful life."

PHILIP HENRY SAVAGE.

Philip Henry Savage, a member of the Library staff since 1896, and recently appointed Clerk of the Corporation, died on June 4, 1899.

Mr. Savage, son of the Rev. Minot J. Savage, D.D., and of Ella (Dodge) Savage, was born at North Brookfield, Mass., on February 11, 1868. He was graduated from the English High School in Boston in the year 1885, and from the class of 1893 of Harvard College, which conferred on him the degree of A.M. in 1896. After a year (1893–4) at the Harvard Divinity School, he acted as assistant in the English Department of the university during 1895–96. During the summer of 1896 he was appointed an instructor in English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but he resigned this position to enter the service of the Public Library as Secretary to the Librarian.

This office, requiring unusual patience and ability to control vexatious detail, he filled with great acceptability. His mind was singularly direct and ingenuous, and his manner winning and responsive. He was held in marked respect by his associates, and his death called forth expressions of the deepest feeling.

The author of two volumes of verse, Mr. Savage had already begun to meet with recognition as a force gentle, yet strong, in the younger American literature, and his growing reputation was appreciated in this Library, where his union of literary skill and executive capacity was of conspicuous value.

FREDERICK OCTAVIUS PRINCE.

The Hon. Frederick O. Prince died at his residence on June 6, 1899, in the eighty-second year of his age. He was born in Boston on January 18, 1818, graduated from the Boston Latin School, and from Harvard College in the class of 1836.

He was Mayor of Boston in 1876, 1879, and 1880, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library from 1888–1899, and from October, 1895, until his retirement in May, 1899, he served as President of the Board.

On the occasion of his retirement the Board of Trustees addressed a tribute to Mr. Prince, which is printed in the Monthly Bulletin for June, 1899.

WILLIAM WHITWELL GREENOUGH.

1818–1899.

On June 17, 1899, died at his residence on Marlboro Street, William Whitwell Greenough. He was the only child of William and Sarah (Gardner) Greenough, and was born in Boston, June 25, 1818. He attended the Boston Latin School and the private school of Mr. F. P. Leverett, and was a graduate of Harvard College in the class of 1837. It was his intention to become an oriental scholar, and he partly fitted himself to that end at Andover, but soon entered business with his father. In 1853 he was elected to the Treasurership of the Boston Gaslight Company, and this office he held until 1889. Mr. Greenough was chosen a Trustee of this Library in 1856, and from 1866 until his retirement in 1888 was President of the Board. The Proceedings and the Correspondence of the City Government and of the Board of Trustees on the occasion of his resignation are given in the Bulletin of the Library for May, 1888.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

EXHIBITIONS. In the Fine Arts Departments, exhibitions were held as follows: May 29–June 19, Photographs of the works of Velasquez on the occasion of the anniversary of his birth, June 5, 1599; May 29–June 19, Photographs relating to the Civil War; June 20, Plates from the works in the Spitzer collection purchased at the Montaiglon sale.

The exhibition of books, maps, and pictures relating to the Battle of Bunker Hill, announced in the last Bulletin, was continued during the month of June in the Children's Reference Library. A circular in regard to the exhibition was sent to the teachers of the public schools of Boston.

PURCHASES MADE AT THE MONTAIGLON SALE. This Library, through an appropriation for the purpose by the Trustees, and by the gift of $1000 from an anonymous friend, was enabled to purchase at the Montaiglon sale, which took place in Boston during May and June, 1296 bound volumes, 176 unbound volumes, 1921 pamphlets, 300 fac-simile manuscripts, and 700 photographs.

PUBLICATIONS. On June 1, as of the date of April 1, appeared a Branch Finding List, containing titles of Books added uniformly to all the Branches, subsequent to the list which appeared a year ago. It is intended that other lists shall appear annually and at about the same date.

GIFT TO THE LIBRARY. Edgar Conway Felton, President of the Pennsylvania Steel works, at Steelton, Pa., has presented a volume entitled Reason why, not Anabaptist Plunging but Infant-Believer's Baptism ought to be approved, by Joseph Low (Boston, 1710). The book was once in the Prince Library, and is now returned to it by Mr. Felton, through President Eliot of Harvard University.

LIBRARY BUILDINGS.

AN

INDEX OF ILLUSTRATIONS.

At the time when plans for a new building for the Boston Public Library were under consideration a collection was made by the Library of pictures and plans, so far as they were obtainable, while all such material in periodicals in the Library was indexed. The result was embodied in the first edition of the present list, printed in the Quarterly Bulletin for January, 1886, and May, 1888, and republished in the Library Journal, October, 1886, and September, 1888. The compiler, Mr. J. L. Whitney, of the Library staff, has continued the work of collecting up to the present time. Additional information was obtained through blank forms sent out by Mr. Putnam, at that time Librarian, to such libraries as have erected new buildings.

The great impulse given in recent years to the Library movement, especially in this country, is shown by this list. It is also seen in the recently published Ninth report of the Free public library commission of Massachusetts, where are found pictures of 148 libraries in this Commonwealth.

The Trustees of the Boston Public Library will gladly receive additions to their collection of library pictures and plans, and also any information which shall render this list more complete.

NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

"Bostonians are proverbially generous in supporting their great public institutions. For this reason our city stands foremost as a centre of learning, education, and art. A simple statement of the fact that one of these institutions stands greatly in need of funds to carry on its work in the degree that its rank demands should, therefore, be sufficient to call forth a commensurate response. There seems to be a general impression that our Public Library is amply provided by endowment and annual appropriations with the means to assure its due development along any lines of usefulness that it has to follow. This impression is doubtless due to the gifts continually made by numerous benefactors, testifying to a more widespread interest in its welfare than is shown for any other public institution. The gifts, however, consist mainly of books and other additions to its collections, many of them of great value. In gifts of money the Public Library is the least favored of all the great institutions of learning, art, and education in the New England metropolis. The total of the endowments received since the foundation of the library, nearly a half-century ago, amount to only $270,000. Of that sum only the income of $220,000 is available for the purchase of books. And, with the decreased earning power of money, this income is steadily diminishing.

"Such an endowment is small in comparison with the amounts heaped upon Harvard University, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Museum of Fine Arts in the same period. In importance, magnitude, and value of its work, the Public Library holds a rank that places it on a par with a great university. It stands as the foremost institution of its kind in the world. It is not only essential to its own well-being, but to the interests of Boston as a city, that this rank should be maintained. But, unfortunately, the library is so hampered by the lack of funds for the purpose, that, on its scholarly side, it is relatively losing rank. Now that attention is called to this condition in the annual report of the library trustees, just out, Boston public spirit should not allow this loss to continue.

"Many of our men of wealth are in the habit of looking about them to see what public institutions may best become objects for beneficence in the way either of bequests or of gifts while living. It cannot be said to be exactly a fashion in the way of bequests, but there is a sort of routine commonly followed in such matters, so that benefactions of the kind are apt to be apportioned among certain groups of institutions. For a long time the Institute of Technology was overlooked, but it has now become well established as an object of generosity. Until recently the Museum of Fine Arts was comparatively poor in endowments, but it is now one of the richest of our institutions. There is no reason why the Public Library should not be given a place in the same list.

"An institution of the kind necessarily must grow, and it must develop in manifold directions. The Museum of Fine Arts, by reason of the funds at its command, has become the leading institution of its kind in the world, in respect to certain of its departments. And lately it has been enabled to appear in the art markets of Europe in competition with the greatest museums of the old world, making in the past year or so the most important acquisitions in the way of classical antiquities anywhere achieved. In the same way, if adequately endowed, the Public Library might appear in the world's book markets and take its pick of the literary treasures that are constantly appearing on sale — treasures the possession of which are essential to the scholarly rank of the institution. It should be remembered that the scholarly rank of the library is one of the important factors that make Boston a favorite among American cities for the most desirable class of persons seeking an attractive place of residence.

"The prosperity of various leading public institutions has been actively enhanced by the practice, on the part of their friends, of 'passing around the hat' to obtain needed funds. It might be a good idea for influential friends of the Public Library to take organized action in a similar way." — From the Boston Herald of August 10, 1899.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

MONTHLY BULLETINS. It is respectfully suggested to readers, who are interested in the Monthly Bulletins, to see that they personally receive copies soon after the first of each month. Recent issues are fast going out of print, and there is likely to be an increasing demand on the editions. Readers may ask to have copies reserved for them.

THE ANNUAL REPORT for 1898/99, is now published. It contains about 200 pages, a map showing the Branches and Delivery Stations as existing on February 1, 1898, and five ground plans, showing the alterations made at the Central Library during the past year. Special reports also appear on the Department of Documents and Statistics, and on Considerations as to a Printed Catalogue in Book Form. Applications for this report may be made to the Library.

CRAWFORD'S STATUE OF BEETHOVEN, now the property of the Handel and Haydn Society, has been deposited in trust with the Trustees of this Library. It is placed in a niche in the Entrance Hall.

GIFTS TO THE LIBRARY.

BOOKS. From the estate of the late Henry C. Warren of Cambridge, Description de l'Égypte, in 20 volumes, being one of the four issues called the first edition, 1809–1828; from Mr. William D. Sohier, 594 volumes, chiefly English law reports, including Coke's Reports and Institutes, Blackstone's Reports, 1746–79; Haggard's Admiralty Reports, Carrington's Reports, Wheaton's U. S. Supreme Court Reports, Maryland Reports, etc., — all in a fine state of preservation, and new to the Library, with the exception of fourteen volumes.

MANUSCRIPTS. A considerable gift of manuscripts, books and pamphlets has been received from Miss Mary Estlin, of Clifton, near Bristol, England, and the daughter of Bishop Estlin, a prominent figure in the anti-slavery agitation. Mr. Francis J. Garrison, through whose friendly interest the gift was obtained, reports that the "package of letters promises to be a rich one, including a large number from Samuel May, a number from S. J. May, some from Mrs. Chapman and Henry Crabb Robinson, a few from Charles F. Hovey, from the widow of Thomas Clarkson, and a very precious letter from Harriet Martineau (1843)." The books and pamphlets are of much interest and in admirable condition.

Mr. Sylvester Baxter gives an inventory in manuscript, of the date 1667–68, of the monastery of San Antonio, Queretaro, Mexico, 1667–68.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON'S WOOD ENGRAVINGS. The Library has received as the gift of the widow of Robert Louis Stevenson, and through the kind offices of Mr. Lloyd Osbourne, original blocks of eighteen wood engravings executed by her late husband. The blocks were used to illustrate a series of chap-books written by Stevenson and Osbourne about 1881, and issued from the press of S. L. Osbourne & Co., Davos Platz, Switzerland. Although these cuts were done as a pleasantry, they are by no means devoid of merit, and make an interesting memorial of Mr. Stevenson. The Library has given its pledge that "the blocks shall never be used to print impressions from them for sale or private distribution"; in the words of Mr. Osbourne, they "are valuable only for the sentiment and association attached to them." Facsimiles of these cuts are used in the Bonus volume of the Edinburgh edition of Stevenson's works. An account by Joseph Pennell of the Davos Platz books is in the Chap-Book, vol. 6, no. 1.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF BOSTON

Part II.

A LIST OF MAPS AND VIEWS OF BOSTON AND BOSTON HARBOR

1633 - 1899.

The preparation of this list of Maps and Views of Boston and Boston Harbor was begun by the late Mr. J. F. Carret, whose death in December, 1897, caused a suspension of the task. It has been revised and completed by Mr. John Murdoch, of the Library staff.

The list as now offered forms a portion of a Bibliography of Boston, begun by Mr. Edwin M. Bacon, of this city. Part 1, containing the official documents of Boston during its existence as a town, is published in the Monthly Bulletin for February, 1898. Other parts will follow in due course.

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

EXHIBITIONS. In connection with the International Congregational Council held in Boston from September 20–28, 1899, was exhibited in the Fine Arts Department a collection of books, pamphlets, and tracts on early Congregationalism, ranging from about 1580 to 1700, and including literature relating to the Puritans, Separatists, and Brownists, and to the history of the Plymouth Colony and the Massachusetts Bay.

On September 5 were displayed in the Fine Arts Department photographs from paintings by Anthony Van Dyck (1599–1641) in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of that artist.

In connection with the State Exhibition of Drawing in the Public Schools, held in Copley Hall, September 27–October 2, an exhibit beginning September 23, was made in the Fine Arts Department of books and plates illustrative of drawings by the old masters, industrial design, art anatomy, historic ornament, etc.

VISITORS. Persons who are desirous of availing themselves of the invitation to inspect the Library on Wednesday or "Visitors' Day," are respectfully requested to present themselves as near to half-past ten A.M. as possible.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LIBRARY are for sale at the Central Desk in Bates Hall and at the Registration Desk in the Issue Department. Orders will be received at all the Branches and Delivery and Deposit Stations.

ERRATUM. In the announcement on page 273 of the September Bulletin, of the gift of Miss Mary Estlin, for Bishop Estlin read John Bishop Estlin.

NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Monthly Bulletin for September of the present year reprinted an editorial from the BOSTON HERALD of August 10, on the "Needs of the Public Library." The following editorial, reprinted from the BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER of November 20, emphasizes the first article, and suggests a practical way to promote a cause of importance to all citizens of Boston.

"It is beginning to be asked by those entrusted with directing the upward career of the Boston Public Library whether something cannot be done to get more money for buying new books. The number and size of the cash gifts to the institution since the new building went into use has been so inconsiderable, especially from our own citizens, that we wonder if there is not some public misapprehension as to the financial situation. Can it be that Boston people have been misled by appearances to suppose that because the library lives in a fine house it has a large income?

"It is farthest from the thoughts of any one concerned for the library to belittle the benefactions which have descended upon it so generously and faithfully during these five years from friends who have known its needs. Again and again upon the records, often anonymously, stand presents of books, manuscripts, cash for books, cash for photographs and such like contributions, made at times when the representative of the institution was obliged to go out begging for a little money that the library might hold up its head among endowed competitors in auction sales. These are the friends of the library when it has no other private friends, and it would be graceless thanks indeed to ignore or depreciate what they are doing. But the mere fact that it is found necessary to call upon such precarious sources of revenue to keep the collection even respectably near the forefront shows how wretchedly poor the establishment is.

"If anybody supposes the trustees have no other official care but to sit in their luxurious room and count money, he would better read the history of the new building. It was put up wholly by appropriation of the city. After it was nominally finished, it was found that some changes had to be made, and the city went into its pocket again. There was no endowment fund that might be drawn upon.

"Nor has the city made any attempt or any pretense of doing more than pay running expenses and buy the more popular books of which the library has made a specialty. The income from trust funds which can be spent for books is only $9000, which is steadily decreasing, as the city of Boston bonds in which it is invested are replaced with bonds at 3½ per cent., and last year the miscellaneous cash gifts already mentioned amounted to only about $4000 more. It is out of $13,000 per annum that the librarian is expected to maintain his collection in its traditional position as a great storehouse containing all the important books there are. Is he doing it?

"Mr. Herbert Putnam, in his report submitted after retiring from the librarianship, said he was not. He wrote: 'On the popular side the library is developing nominally. On the scholarly side it is not developing in proper proportion. On this side the library is relatively losing rank. It will not, cannot, regain this rank, until the citizens of Boston come to its aid with further endowment.'

"How does the library stand among libraries in this matter? Philadelphia spends this year $51,000 for books. Buffalo, with a population probably less than 300,000, spends $20,000. Detroit and Cleveland, with still less population, spend $8000 to $10,000, quite out of proportion to our own estimate, while little Minneapolis, with perhaps 175,000 people, spends this year $12,350 in books for its public library. Not one of these cities, excepting Philadelphia, approaches Boston either in population or in wealth and business solidity. Is it possible that when our men of means are made aware of the humiliating position into which our once proudly boasted 'greatest' library seems in danger of falling, they will long permit the catalogue to show gap after gap in the realms of science, history, art, and literature?"

CURRENT LIBRARY NEWS.

BRANCHES AND STATIONS. Another delivery station, at the Industrial School, 39 North Bennet St., has been added to the Library system under the name of Station W.

Station M has been removed from No. 940 to No. 1002 Dorchester Ave.

As a result of alterations recently made at the Jamaica Plain Branch, the shelves have been thrown open to the public.

The books in the South End Branch have been reclassified, and free access is now allowed to all but a few of the shelves.

The Charlestown, East Boston and South Boston Branches, the Broadway Extension Reading Room, and the Roxbury Crossing Delivery Station are now open on Sunday for the winter.

BUST OF GENERAL WALKER. Mr. Richard E. Brooks has been commissioned by the City of Boston to make a bronze memorial of the late General Francis A. Walker. The memorial is to have a place in the Library, and is to consist of a portrait bust, with a curved bronze background, set well into the granite wall of the arcade of the interior court.

MR. LOUIS PRANG marks his retirement from business, by presenting to this Library some valuable gifts reminiscent of his long and important services to the growth of lithographic art in Boston. The collection comprises proofs which illustrate the development of lithography for the past forty years, and includes the 116 plates made for Walters's work on Ceramics. A replica of Zumbusch's bronze bust of Senefelder, the inventor of lithography, accompanies the gift.
